

N. & W. CLERKS IN COLUMBUS SEEK TO RETURN TO POSTS; PROPOSED STRIKE OF SIGNALMEN HAS BEEN POSTPONED

ATLANTIC CITY FLIER WRECKED

This shows what was left of the midnight flier, Philadelphia & Reading Train, which, loaded with returning Atlantic City excursionists, left the rails and plunged over an embankment at Winslow Junction, near Atlantic City. Seven were killed and more than 50 injured. Investigators say the switch at the Junction had been improperly set, sending the flier onto a sidetrack and a sharp curve which threw it from the rails. John De Walt, 67-year-old towerman at the Junction was hysterical after the crash.

Irregulars Surrender; Fire Is Still Raging

DUBLIN, July 6.—(By the Associated Press)—Late this afternoon firemen placed the flames under control.

DUBLIN, July 6.—(By the Associated Press)—With 20 buildings in O'Connell street, Dublin's main thoroughfare, destroyed by fire, which raged through the night, the flames were not completely under control today. Only smoldering ruins remained where the insurgents made their last stand. It is believed the damage will reach several hundred thousand pounds. Four snipers were shot dead during the night.

Robert C. Barton, former minister of economics in the Dail Eireann cabinet, was arrested at the home of Erskine Childers.

DeValera Escaped
The Irish Independent today says it is informed on good authority that Eamon DeValera, the Republican leader, left the Sackville street stronghold Tuesday night. It is understood that papers of a military nature were found in the possession of Barton when he was arrested at the Childers residence in Bushey Park road.

Cabinet Member Wounded
Cathal Brugha, (Charles Burgess), the DeValera minister of defense, who was wounded in a leg during a futile dash for escape, was operated on in a hospital at midnight. He was very weak after the operation and this morning was reported to be sinking rapidly.

Many Buildings Ruined
The whole line of buildings from the offices of the Dublin Tramway Company to Fintona Lane, which formed the 200 yard frontage of the Republicans' last stronghold, is ruined, including the Hauman, Gresham, Granville and Crown Hotels, and the general post office. Six buildings on the opposite side of the street also destroyed by fire, which threatened this afternoon to spread to Henry street.

The siege of the strongholds of the insurgent Irish forces was virtually ended last night with the surrender of small groups of the men who had been fighting for the past week behind the barricades, and the capture of one of the principal leaders, Cathal Brugha.

STRIKERS DRIVE STRIKE BREAKERS FROM SHOPS

Gendarmes At Vatican Mutiny

LONDON, July 6.—(By the Associated Press)—A Central News dispatch from Rome says the gendarmes serving in an honorary capacity in policing the Vatican, mutinied this morning, crying out, "Long live the pope," "Death to the commandant!" They were immediately disarmed and the barracks occupied by Swiss guards.

Tenants Battle Troops

NEIRA CRUZ, July 6.—(By the Associated Press)—Fighting among the striking members of the tenants' syndicate resulted in the death of an army officer and the serious wounding of two other officers and seven civilians. The tenants have refused to pay rents. Soldiers were called out, but their officers were attacked with knives when they attempted to pacify the mob. The arrival of reinforcements restored order.

Musical Comedy Star To Marry

NEW YORK, July 6.—(By the Associated Press)—This is the wedding day of Miss Carroll McComas, musical comedy star. Her friends learned of her nuptial plans only yesterday, when she and Walter J. Enright, a newspaper artist, obtained a license. Miss McComas is not going on a honeymoon immediately, nor is she to retire from the stage. She said with a smile "probably marriage will mean that I will do better work on the stage than I have done before."

Mr. Enright was divorced at Reno two years ago by Maginel Wright Enright, also an artist. Miss McComas has never been married before, but this is not her first romance. A year ago she was made the sole beneficiary under the will of Howard J. Plannery, of Pittsburgh, to whom she had been engaged. The amount of the bequest was reported to be several millions.

Miss McComas is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. McComas, of Los Angeles.

SLATER, MO., July 6.—(By the Associated Press)—Railroad officials today awaited word from Governor A. M. Hyde before making further plans for reopening the Chicago and Alton shops here, from which a crowd of more than 500 strikers drove eighteen strike-breakers yesterday.

After the strikers had cleared the town of strike-breakers, drawn a dead line around the shops, beyond which strangers were not allowed to pass, and had established guard posts at various points, they settled down to a policy of watchful waiting.

Union chiefs and town officials are one in declaring they expect no trouble if the railroad does not attempt to import strike-breakers.

Eighteen strike-breakers were taken from the shops late yesterday in automobiles to the edge of the town and told to "beat it," and "keep going."

The strikers say they want no violence and do not expect any. They are frank to add, however that they do not intend to permit the opening of the railroad shops with outside labor.

Vice-Squad Chief's Home Wrecked

AKRON, O., July 6.—(By the Associated Press)—Explosion of two dynamite bombs wrecked the home of Police Lieutenant Frank McGuire, head of the vice squad, early today, but all five occupants of the house escaped without injury.

The forces of the blasts blew in one side of the McGuire residence and broke windows in other houses for several blocks around.

Neighbors reported to police that two men were seen lurking in the shadows about the McGuire home shortly before the explosion.

Police believe that the men are members of a hoodluming gang and are seeking to connect them with blackhand letters recently received by Police Judge L. S. Farber.

Conciliatory Note From The Strikers

COLUMBUS, O., July 6.—(By the Associated Press)—Clerks and freight handlers of the Norfolk & Western Railroad, who have been on a strike, have requested that the company take them back at their old positions, officials of the Norfolk & Western announced this afternoon.

The company's attitude with reference to their return has not been established and a conference has been scheduled for this afternoon, at which some decision will be made.

More Shopmen At Work
ROANOKE, VA., July 6.—(By the Associated Press)—More shopmen are at work along the line of the Norfolk & Western today than were at work Saturday, according to a statement issued by President N. D. Maher. The walkout of clerks at the general offices announced for Wednesday by their chairman, C. E. Lane, resulted in the loss of 99 employees out of a total of eight hundred, the statement said.

adding that clerks were reported leaving the service at no other point except Columbus, Ohio. Improvement in freight service also was claimed by the company.

Signalmen Not To Be Called Out
CHICAGO, July 6.—(By the Associated Press)—The 12,000 union signalmen in this country will not be called out on strike for the time being at least. D. W. Helt, president of their union, announced this afternoon, in calling a meeting of his executive committee here for Saturday afternoon to decide what permanent action the signalmen will take.

Mr. Helt made his announcement in a formal statement following a conference with W. L. McMillen, labor member of the railroad labor board. The signalmen's executive committee will confer with labor members of the labor board Saturday, he said.

"Pending this conference, a status quo will be preserved among the members of the Brotherhood of Railroad Signalmen of America," the statement said.

Trend Toward Peace
CHICAGO, July 6.—(By the Associated Press)—The strike of railway shopmen assumed a more conciliatory aspect today and feeling became more general in rail circles that the last twenty-four hours had shown a marked trend toward peace, despite increased disorders at scattered points.

A strong willingness to grapple the olive branch of peace until it breaks or until the strike of railroad shop crafts finally is settled, was expressed today by B. M. Jewell, president of the railway employees' department of the American Federation of Labor.

A statement issued by Mr. Jewell referred to a letter sent to him yesterday by Ben W. Hooper, chairman of the railroad labor board, in which Chairman Hooper said the board "has been protecting the interests of the striking shopmen."

Mr. Jewell's statement in part follows: "Though the letter itself has not reached me, I can on the basis of press reports say that the mere declaration that the organization of employees who have organized or may decline, as is their legal right, to accept the dictates of the labor board are not to be 'outlawed,' does not remove or annul the official action of the board."

"The language of the resolution clearly provides that the shop crafts organizations are to be supplanted by organizations of what may be termed whitewashed strike-breakers."

The statement, concluded with a reiteration of his willingness to sit in negotiations with any one who has a proposal "up his sleeve."

It was believed that yesterday's exchange of letters between Ben W. Hooper, chairman of the Railroad Labor Board, and B. M. Jewell, head of the railway employees' department of the American Federation of Labor, probably opened the way to negotiation.

TENSE SITUATION IN BELMONT COUNTY; NOT TO SEND TROOPS

"Many Prominent Women Opposed To Change In The Prohibition Laws"

EVANSTON, ILL., July 6.—(By the Associated Press)—Many prominent women of America differ with Miss Elizabeth Marbury, New York author and publicist, and are unalterably opposed to any change in the prohibition laws, according to the Union Signal, official organ of the National Women's Christian Temperance Union.

Miss Marbury was quoted as saying at a recent meeting of the association against the prohibition amendment: "The women of this country were the first to demand prohibition and they will be the first to repeal it."

The union quotes several prominent women: Mary Anderson, director of women's bureau, United States department of labor; "Prohibition has been of benefit to the country. I have observed that a better standard prevails among the families of the working people and that the children are better fed and clothed."

Maude Woodpark, president of the National League of Women Voters: "The mothers of the nation are no more likely to wipe out the 18th amendment than they are to demand the cultivation of typhoid germs in the water supply system has purified."

Mina C. VanWinkle, president of the International Association of Policewomen: "National prohibition is one of the greatest safeguards to youth and the home."

Grace Abbott, chief of the Children's Bureau of the United States Bureau of Labor: "From my own experience and observation and a study of available reports, I see no reason for changing my attitude concerning the 18th amendment and enforcement of the law. I regard national prohibition as necessary for the protection of the health and welfare of children."

Mrs. Booker T. Washington, Tuskegee Institute: "The women of my race believe in prohibition and will stand by it. Colored men are buying homes and treating their families with far more respect."

At the Marion County Bank, of which the president is a director, he met William Schuffner, president of the bank, and other acquaintances.

HARDING GUEST OF COLUMBUS

COLUMBUS, July 6.—(By A. P.)—Driving from his home town of Marion in one hour and forty-five minutes, President Harding arrived here at one o'clock this afternoon to participate in a celebration to be given this evening by the Columbus Republican Glee Club.

President Harding and his party went directly to the Seoto Country Club, where they had luncheon, and where the president planned to play a round of golf this afternoon. The president was the luncheon guest of Attorney General Daugherty, whose home is in this city.

The Glee Club program will be given this evening at the home of H. J. Jeffers, where the president and Mrs. Harding will spend the night before starting on their motor trip back to Washington tomorrow.

The Columbus Republican Glee Club is one of the oldest political organizations in the state and has taken a prominent part at every Republican national convention for years. Some give the Glee Club credit for having sung Mr. Harding into the presidential nomination at the Chicago convention, where it entertained the crowd for 45 minutes before the parade arrived.

MARION, O., July 6.—(By the Associated Press)—President Harding left Marion at 10:30 a. m. today for Columbus on the first lap of his journey to Washington, after spending nearly three days among home folks and attending the centennial celebration of his home town.

Prior to the president's departure he motored to the Marion Star, his newspaper, and attended a directors' meeting.

At the Marion County Bank, of which the president is a director, he met William Schuffner, president of the bank, and other acquaintances.

Leaving the bank the president stopped and shook hands with numerous old friends who crowded around him.

NEW YORK, July 6.—(By the Associated Press)—Panic raged 75 feet under ground today when fire broke out on an uptown Lexington avenue subway car near 59th street. Deadly gases filled the ten cars when guards attacked the small blaze with fire extinguishers and about 150 men, women and children were affected by the fumes before they crawled through the darkened tube to culets and climbed or were lifted to the street, two levels above the express tracks.

Three persons were so badly attacked by the gas that fear is felt for their lives. About fifty were sent to hospitals and the others received medical attention. The train carried about 500 passengers.

Passengers Fought To Escape
A downtown express on reaching the spot where the other had halted also was filled with fumes. Windows were broken as the passengers fought to escape.

Unaware that the electric current had been switched off four minutes after the fire broke out in a fuse box, passengers crawled along the tracks on hands and knees, fearing the dreaded third rail.

Mayor Directs Relief Work
With Mayor Hylan directing operations, the blaze soon was extinguished, ambulances were summoned from every hospital in the city and a first aid station organized on Lexington avenue which was roped off for 15 blocks by police reserves because of the thousands who flocked to the scene. It was two hours before traffic could be resumed on the subway which was jammed with stalled trains for many miles.

The accident occurred about 75 feet underground.

The fire started in the motorman's box after a fuse had blown out. There was a flash of flame and the smoke swept through the crowded train.

When the emergency brakes were applied and the train came to a grinding halt, guards threw open the doors and passengers made a mad scramble to escape. Those unable to walk were carried from the cars to the 58th street station. Fire ladders also were dropped through iron gratings at 61st street and unconscious women lifted to the street.

Injured On Sidewalks
The injured were stretched out on the sidewalks for several blocks. A temporary hospital was organized and 14 polymeters put in operation. The crowd of spectators soon became so dense that police reserves had to be rushed to the scene.

Men, women and children filled the ten-car train. Guards attempted to fight the flames with hand extinguishers, but failed. When the firemen arrived, however, they soon succeeded in quelling the blaze, which in itself was small. Many of the firefighters were overcome.

Relief work soon got under way. Besides the doctors who hastened to the scene in ambulances, many other physicians jumped into taxicabs, in many cases bringing their office nurses with them.

Bloomingdale's department store at 59th street and Lexington avenue, promptly organized a fire brigade of 75 employees, who dashed into the subway to aid in the rescue work. The store's drug department was raided for supplies and polymeters.

Firemen Overcome
Many firemen were overcome as they tried to descend the subway steps. Members of the rescue squad donned their gas masks to attack the flames.

Seventy-Five Hurt In Train Crash

CHICAGO, July 6.—(By the Associated Press)—Seventy-five persons were injured, only one seriously, when a Chicago bound Pere Marquette passenger train crashed into a New York Central engine on a siding near Porter, Ind., late last night. The train proceeded to Chicago this morning after the injured received first aid.

Officials of both railroads began an investigation immediately. Early today responsibility for the crash had not been fixed.

The negro cook on the dining car was the only person reported to have been seriously injured.

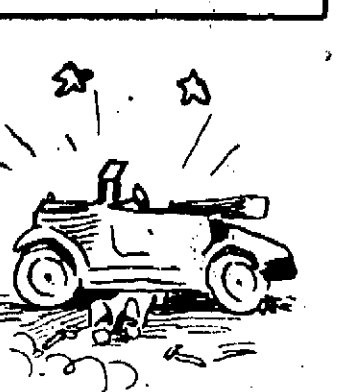

The collision occurred near the scene of the smash-up of New York Central and Michigan Central trains last year when thirty-seven persons were killed.

It was not until the train reached Chicago that news of the accident became known.

The train was made up of three sleeping cars, a diner and several coaches.

The New York Central engine was standing on a siding when the Pere Marquette passenger train ran into it, through a presumably open or defective switch, according to railroad officials. Judge A. G. Adams, of the Chicago court of domestic relations, a passenger, said the train was making 20 miles an hour when it hit the switch, but was slowed to approximately 25 before it crashed into the engine.

LOCAL N. & W. CLERKS REMAIN AT WORK; STATEMENT IS ISSUED BY THE SHOPMEN

When claim to 75 members of N. & W. lodge, No. 244, Brotherhood of Railway and Steamship Clerks, met last night, the question of going on strike in sympathy with the striking shopmen was discussed from all angles and it was finally decided to take no action for or against a strike but to remain at work until strike orders were received from General Chairman C. A. Lane who receives his instructions from the Grand Lodge, Brotherhood of Railway and Steamship Clerks.

The clerk who had word that the shopmen in several other points had left the job in sympathy with the strikers decided not to follow their action. All the clerks here decided to remain on the job pending definite orders. It was stated today that four of the clerks who left their jobs at Columbus returned in work last night and that others were expected to go to work today. The clerks who are out at Bluefield, Boone, and Williamsport are out illegally according to statements of local officers of the Clerks' Union.

Another meeting of the Federated crafts was held this afternoon at two o'clock. The press committee reported at the meeting that several additional shop foremen had joined the strikers' ranks this morning and that every man who had come out so far was remaining steady.

It was stated that fifteen laborers employed by the N. & W. at Columbus had joined the striking shopmen and that traffic at Columbus was on a standstill. The committee also stated that additional maintenance of way men north of Portsmouth had joined the strikers since Wednesday.

The striking shopmen this afternoon issued the following statement setting forth their side of the strike and giving the reasons why they went on strike:

Mr. Editor:

Please allow us space in your columns to explain our side of the present railroad labor trouble. The three things we asked for are: first, to resist a wage cut of 7 cents per hour as we believe this to be unfair and unjust as the cost of living is soaring higher and higher, and in the face of all this Mr. Hooper says that the wage reduction is fair and just. But he does not tell the people that the wage reduction is an increase in salary of $2,000 so they now receive the enormous sum of $10,000 per year, making a grand total of $12,000 per year. Now how does Mr. Hooper and other members of the labor board expect the men of the shop crafts to live and maintain a livelihood on the present wage if he and other members of the board can't live on $10,000 per year?

Mr. Hooper does not tell of the meeting he held in New York with the railroad executives at which he stated that they did perfectly right in organizing and that he thought there should be a law passed to prohibit labor from striking or in other words Mr. Hooper thinks it is all right for the rail heads to strike against labor but labor must not strike back.

Second, that pay for all Sundays and holidays should be paid for at the rate of time and one-half. This is a condition we have enjoyed on some railroads for the past forty years, yet the Labor Board says we must work Sundays and holidays for straight time. We ask for nothing only what is fair and just. We believe that if we are required to work Sundays and holidays we should at least receive some compensation for same, for we enjoy our Sundays and holidays at home with our loved ones just the same as the business man, the railroad executive or any other American citizen.

Third, we voted in favor of the abolition of piece work and will not go back again to the conditions as they existed under the piece work system, which the railroad executives are trying to again force on the men.

We wish to state to the public in general that we are justified in the present fight that we are making, and invite all self-respecting citizens to look closely into the record of the shop crafts and the many in-

Justices they have been compelled to bear in the past. Many times we have been justified in striking in protest of the deplorable conditions that were forced upon us, but we did not strike. Instead we tried to go along in a peaceable manner until conditions became so bad that in justice to ourselves and families, as American citizens, we were compelled to strike in protest.

HARDING AND LASKER CHARGED WITH VIOLATION OF DRY LAWS

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 6.—(By the Associated Press)—President Harding and Chairman Lasker, of the shipping board, were charged by Senator Caraway, Democrat, Arkansas, in the senate today with flagrant violation of the prohibition laws in permitting the sale of liquor on shipping board vessels. The senator said "all Christian Americans protest" against such sale of liquor.

Elmer Schlessinger, general counsel of the shipping board, gave the opinion that sale of liquor was legal on American vessels beyond the territorial limits of the United States, was described by Senator Caraway as a "law" and an attorney for interests which fought the prohibition act.

"The man responsible for the most flagrant violation of the eighteenth amendment and the Volstead act is the president of the United States," said Senator Caraway. "With a stroke of a pen he could close more bar rooms than any other man within the history of the world. The president could instruct the shipping board to close the saloons on all ships operated by the Emergency Fleet Corporation. The president knows, all know, that were he to give such an order Mr. Lasker would obey it."

"Every ship that sails beneath the American flag owned, operated or leased by the shipping board, sells whiskey by the express or implied permission of the president of the United States. Tomorrow all of them would be dry if he willed it."

Senator Caraway referred to President Harding's speech July 4 at Marion, declaring for enforcement of the prohibition laws, and also to the recent statement attributed to Secretary Weeks, suggesting a beer and wine modification of the Volstead act.

"Can his apologies delay that he the president convalesces at the breaking down of public morality?" asked Senator Caraway, adding that apparently Secretary Weeks expressed the personal sentiment of the executive.

Compare such a breakfast or lunch with a heavy, greasy diet on a hot day! Realize the health and cooling refreshment of Kellogg's Corn Flakes and raspberries—or other fresh fruit!

Kellogg's Corn Flakes appeal wonderfully to finicky folks—just the food for uncomfortable weather! Yet Kellogg's are as nourishing as they are delightful. Keep the little tots on a Kellogg's diet and see how they benefit!

Insist upon Kellogg's Corn Flakes in the RED and GREEN package, bearing the signature, W. K. Kellogg, originator of Corn Flakes. None are genuine without it!

May Stage Labor Day Boxing Show

Says the Huntington Herald Dispatch: Promoter Joe Stender got well lumped financially on the big fight. The show drew a few dollars less than $20,000. The Martin-Brennan affair was a Madison Square display.

and this is not second guess. Of course, the weather conditions were all against the match but even had conditions been ideal, Joe would have played a losing hand. Huntington wasn't ripe for such a huge contest. Stender isn't going to quit. It is rumored that Joe will stage another match in the same arena on Labor Day. The one card that would pull 'em down to Clyffside at a reasonable price would be "Nig" Blair and Mike Kearney. That's our hunch.

Famous Old "Logan Elm" Near Chillicothe In Advanced State Of Decay

CHILICOTHE, OHIO, June 7.—The "Logan Elm," famous landmark near Chillicothe, is in an advanced state of decay. This verdict was rendered recently by tree experts, after an examination of the trunk and limbs of the famous tree. They have recommended immediate steps be taken to prevent one of the main crochets from parting, and that tree surgery be resorted to in order that the gradual spread of decay among the larger limbs be checked.

The tree probably is second in fame only to the Washington Elm, as it marks the spot where Lord Dunmore treated with the Indians in 1774. The Ohio State Historical Society has been notified of this condition.

Says Coster Was Outclassed By Blair

In commenting on the Blair-Coster scrap in Clyffside, the Ashland Independent Wednesday said: "The preliminary card was an unusually good one yesterday. The semi-final was taken by Nig Blair of Portsmouth from Kid Coster of Charleston in the second round. After punishing the West Virginian unmercifully and receiving no blows in the first round, Blair went into the second plainly with the attempt to end it there. Coster was bleeding profusely and was out on his feet in the second when the referee held up Blair's right arm in token of a technical knockout. Blair was the favorite of the crowd. Coster weighed in at 143 and Blair at 145 pounds."

Mother-To-Be, Read This—

Here is a wonderful message to all expectant mothers. From this moment on, cast from your mind all dread and fear, and feel every day as the months roll by that great freedom from much of the suffering which thousands of expectant mothers undergo, unnecessarily. And when the Little One arrives, you can have that moment more free from suffering than you have perhaps imagined. An eminent physician, expert in this science, has shown the way. It was he who first produced the great remedy, "Mother's Friend." Mrs. C. J. Hartman, Scranton, Pa., says:

"With my first two children I had a doctor and a nurse and then they had to use instruments, but with my last two children I used Mother's Friend and had only a nurse; we had no time to get a doctor because I wasn't very sick—only about ten or fifteen minutes."

"Mother's Friend" is applied externally to the abdomen, back and hips. It aids the muscles and tissues to expand easily. It penetrates quickly. It contains no narcotics or harmful drugs. It is safe. There is no substitute. Avoid useless groans sometimes recommended by the ignorant. "Mother's Friend" is sold by all druggists.

NOTE—Write for valuable free illustrated book, "Motherhood and the Baby," containing important information for expectant mothers should have, and all about "Mother's Friend" to Wm. Rogers Company, 24-26, Atlantic, Ga.

Fire Damages City View Store

Fire of unknown origin caused about $500 damage to the Joe Evans grocery store building and stock in City View addition, West Side, about 10:30 o'clock last night. Miss Garnet Noel, neighbor, discovered the fire and awakened Mr. and Mrs. Evans. The fire was rapidly licking up the general stock in the store when neighbors formed a bucket brigade and after hard work got the fire under control. A call was sent in to the Portsmouth fire department and the East End firemen responded and helped extinguish the last sparks with chemical. One end of the store room was badly damaged and practically all of the stock destroyed or damaged by fire and smoke. The show cases and shelving and other fixtures were also damaged. The loss is covered by insurance. Hazeltuck will insure you.

Louise Glaum

The Famous Actress, Says---

"Show Me A Homely Girl Or Woman And I'll Show You A Neglected Complexion."

With A Soft, Peach-Like Velvety Skin Every Woman Would Be Attractive. Nothing So Good For The Skin As Ordinary Oatmeal.

Los Angeles—"The girl or woman who is passed by without a glance of admiration has only herself to blame," says Louise Glaum, the beautiful actress.

Through following a simple combination it is now possible for every girl and woman to have an attractive, ruddy-white beautiful complexion, free from wrinkles, blackheads, pimples, coarse or large pores, tan, sallowness or roughness. A few minutes night and morning is all the time required.

There is the combination: Go to any grocery store and get 10 cents' worth of oatmeal and from any toilet counter a bottle of Derwillo. First cleanse the skin with a good cold cream (Liska cold cream I have found to be the best), then put a little oatmeal in a bowl made of cheesecloth and with this wash your face, neck and arms using it the same as you would an ordinary washcloth. If it is not convenient to use the oatmeal, then use Derwillo-oatmeal soap, after which apply Derwillo. If your druggist cannot supply you, with Derwillo-oatmeal soap, send 25 cents to Miss Edna Wilder, the beauty specialist, 77 South Ave., Rochester, N. Y., and she will be pleased to mail you a cake.

Over one million discriminating girls and women including leading actresses now use Derwillo in preference to all other beautifiers. It contains no bismuth, plaster, Paris, pearl white or other dangerous drugs which dry out the skin and clog the pores, thus preventing them from doing the work nature intended them to do.

Derwillo and Liska cold cream has an astonishing effect on the skin. It softens, cleanses and makes strong, healthy skin tissue. It brings back to the skin that youthful, peach-like coloring every normal woman craves. There is nothing like oatmeal and Derwillo for beautifying the hands and arms. A few days use of this combination and your friends will comment favorably on your improved appearance.

Those who look old are those with a leopards' skin, dry, muddy skin. This combination makes anyone look ten years younger the moment it is applied. Miss Louise Glaum follows this method herself and recommends it to her most intimate friends who are just as enthusiastic over it as she is.

NOTE:—When asked about Derwillo one of our leading druggists said: "It is truly a wonderful beautifier, away ahead of anything we have ever sold before. We are authorized by the manufacturers to refund the money to anyone who is dissatisfied. This guarantee would not be possible unless the product possessed unusual merit." It is sold in this city under a money-back guarantee by all department stores and all druggists including Flood & Blake and Fisher and Streich.—Advertisement.

Miss Dolly Wise

She is here to answer any and all questions concerning love, matrimony, troubles, woe, etiquette, etc. Inquiries should be addressed to Miss Dolly Wise, care The Daily Times, Portsmouth, Ohio.

Dear Miss Wise—I note in "The Sun Times" of Sunday 25th ult. that Tom L. Collett of the "Iron-ton News" makes a note of a visit to Iron-ton which you recently made, and in keeping with his character he proceeds to make fun of you. Now I want you to ask Mr. Collett if in the year 1880 or 81 if he attended a "Select School" at Sciotoville, and ask him if he and some other "sport" students say to him that the Norfolk and Western does not use the B. and O. track, and never has, and when in the future he has occasion to steal a B. and O. hand car to please remember that seeing a headlight on the N. and W. track need not cause him to jump from a B. and O. stolen car.

Dear Dolly—Can you tell me who the sporty dude is that wears a light blue and tan checkered shirt with large dots in it and a pretty flowered silk handkerchief gracefully draped around his neck. He also wears blue hose. I see him so much on the street cars, and he sure is away out there.

Dear Dolly—Do you know of a harmless remedy that will remove warts? I have a great big fat one on my finger that looks as big as a piece of butter. Mr. doctor wants to slice it off, but I am not going to let him if you can tell me of an easier way of getting rid of it.

DOES LAUNDRY WORK AND HOUSEWORK TOO
Surprised to Find Her- self Feeling So Well

Taunton, Mass.—"I used to have pains in my back and legs so badly, with other troubles that women sometimes have, that my doctor ordered me to stay in bed a week in every month. It didn't do much good, so one day after talking with a friend who took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for about the same troubles I had, I thought I would try it also. I find that I can work in the laundry all through the time and do my housework, too. Last month I was so surprised at myself to be up and around and feeling so good while before I used to feel completely lifeless. I have told some of the girls who work with me and have such troubles to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I tell them how it has helped me. You can use my testimonial for the good of others."—Mrs. BLANCHÉ SYLVIA, 59 Grant St., Taunton, Mass.

It's the same story—one friend telling another of the value of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

you suggest anything? If so answer before my ground hog starves. All of my pets die, because of my lack of knowledge as to what to feed them.

UNLUCKY HENRY.
Ground hogs do not need a special diet. You can put Mr. Ground Hog in a high chair and let him eat anything on the table, or just give him bread and butter and the "scraps" from the table. You are pretty safe in feeding your pet anything that you eat yourself, or anything they like. As a rule animals will not eat anything that is not good for them. They have more sense than some people in this respect.

Dear Miss Wise—Is there anything a person can do to keep from getting struck with lightning? We live in the country and it is necessary for me to be out and around, sometimes with the stock, and I am so afraid of the lightning I do not know what to do. Is there anything I could carry with me to prevent being hit?

FARMERETTE.
They do say that if one will put on their rubbers (overshoes) and then stand so that their clothes won't touch anywhere, they are perfectly safe whether indoors or out in a storm. Rubber is a non-conductor, and one would be completely insulated. However, if you would stand in your tracks out in a field for any length of time the crows would probably think you were a "scare crow" and start flitting with you.

Dear Dolly—You know of a harmless remedy that will remove warts? I have a great big fat one on my finger that looks as big as a piece of butter. Mr. doctor wants to slice it off, but I am not going to let him if you can tell me of an easier way of getting rid of it.

LITTLE JOHNNY.
You might try this, but if it doesn't come off in a reasonable length of time you might as well shut your eyes, get your teeth and tell the doctor to "slice it off." Dissolve as much washing soda as you can in a little water. Wash the wart with this for a few minutes, and let it dry without wiping. Keep the solution in a bottle and repeat the washing often and it will cause a wart twice as big as the Kentucky hills to disappear—maybe.

Dear Dolly—Where is the county superintendent of schools office located? TIMES READER.
It is located in the Turkey Building, Second and Chillicothe streets.

Dear Miss Wise—I would like for you to recommend a good cold cream that will fatten the face without growing hairs on it. I am troubled with a downy growth anyway and do not want to help it along.

MARJORIE.
Any cold cream that is worth anything as a feeder for the skin, is a wrinkle remover or to remove blackheads, is likely to grow hair. You will have to prevent this by spraying the face with cologne water or peroxide. That is the only way to get the benefit of the cream and the freedom from hairy growth. The greaseless creams are of no value only to hold powder on the face, and if they are not good creams they are harmful from the fact that they fill the pores.

Dear Miss Wise—If the person who signed his name "Anxious Reader" in your column in Sunday's Times will purchase a powder called El Vampiro, which comes in small bottles boxes, and discharge it in his store, after the store is closed in the evening, I am sure he will get rid of the flies immediately. If you are a merchant, why not buy a large amount of this powder. Its cost in money is small, but its cost to the flies is enormous.

Among the picnic parties to celebrate the Fourth with a basket dinner in the country was the one given by the J. S. Cunningham family. The party found a cozy place by a shady brookside on the Price and Sherman farm near Slocum Station. It goes without saying that a great abundance of fine "cats" graced the long white cloth spread on the green grass at the noon hour. Surrounding the sumptuous repast were the following: Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Cunningham and grandsons Roy and John, Mr. and Mrs. M. D. Cunningham and daughter Mildred, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Brandel and children Roy, Doris and Maurice, Rev. and Mrs. M. S. Cunningham and sons Harold and Jack, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Gerald and children Glenn and Violet, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Schmitzer and daughter Alberta. As guests Rev. and Mrs. E. W. Chase enjoyed the occasion with the family. The day was spent in games of baseball, croquet and "barn-yard golf," with other games and throwworks for the children.

The table was spread again at the close of the day's sports and the ample supply of brick ice cream, etc., etc., was joyfully finished. Mrs. Mary Sherman and daughters, Avonell, Temperance and Mrs. Elmer Hensgen and little Mary Louise were visitors at the party for a part of the day, and all reluctantly, though happily, returned home at "the end of a perfect day."

MARRIAGE

Economy is stressed in American betrothals, but it has no place on the program of the Bird Island bridegroom. When he wants a wife he must be prepared to spend a little money on entertainment. He must court the girl lavishly for one month, then give an elaborate dinner to her friends and his.

This is followed by open house and free drinks for at least a week.

Adventures Of The Twins
BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

Mrs. Corny Coon happened to be hanging out her washing.

ON the way to take the fish-bone out of Murty Mink's throat, Mr. Snuffles, with the Twins, was stopped under a tree.

He had to admire the funny baby. Mrs. Woodchuck hit her thumb and he had to tie it up.

Next Mr. Chipmunk called the doctor in to talk about a sore throat. Mrs. Corny Coon happened to be hanging out her washing and stopped the doctor to say the medicine he'd given her for chills made her dizzy.

Mrs. Yellow Hammer insisted on his talking about a new way to sharpen her bill as she had to enlarge her doorway because she was getting so stout.

Mr. Mike Mole needed some more eye-drops. Sandy Squirrel Owl wanted to talk over his hoarseness.

Everyone seemed determined. Nancy and Nick and the doctor should not go to Murty's rescue. They knew Murty couldn't eat as long as he had the fish-bone in his throat.

At last Dr. Snuffles could stand it no longer. When Willie Thud asked for a remedy for warts he pushed her roughly aside and told her to come to his office.

They were abused at Murty Mink's door when Phil Frog suddenly hopped in their way.

Now, Phil loves Murty about as well as you love red pepper, my dears! And Murty loves Phil about as well as you love marshmallow chocolate sundae.

Phil had a plan.

WHOM SHALL MOLLY MARRY?

MOLLY TORN BETWEEN STRENGTH AND SWEETS

BY ZOE BECKLEY

Seeing a sore rival in BILLY BARTON, architect, BEN WHEELER, manufacturer, dismisses him. Wheeler loves MOLLY WAYNE, whom he has saved from an elopement with DONALD MANNING, actor, and later employed as chief of his office staff.

FOR a moment Molly stood too dazed to speak as the door banged behind Billy Barton. A rush of thoughts confused her—pity and dismay for Billy; astonishment and anger that Ben Wheeler had allowed his senses of rivalry to prejudice his business dealings. She held her feelings in check, while she fumbled for a way of accusing Ben without compromising Billy. As usual, Ben said it for her. "Well, you needn't look so horrified, Molly. There are other architects. Unless you don't think so."

"Ben, you're no right to say that. And you are not shirking to your agreement. It was to be nothing but business, you remember. Yet I know I have something to do with your sudden dissatisfaction with Billy Barton."

"You drove me to it by philandering with Barton. When I opened the door yesterday you two were holding hands and—"

"How dare you, Ben Wheeler! I deny every atom of what you are saying. Shaking hands is not holding hands. You can believe me when I say not a word passed except about our work."

"Oh, shucks, Molly, don't try to make me believe all that. You and smiles were over planning specifications and office gear. You and Barton had been having a regular picnic, I saw it in your eyes."

"You are absurd and— and unjust." Molly turned away, lifting her lips with vexation, but knowing in her heart Ben had made a thrust into the truth.

"Besides," she went on, anger flaring up again, "suppose I did have any such thought, is destruction the only way to complete?"

"Perhaps not, in business—though it's fully half the job. You create your product with one hand and kill it off with the other. In love—Molly—and I am in love with you—my plant and what I am are the creation side of my courtship."

"The rest is a matter of removing

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Deake (Lucile Tracy) of 512 Waller street have returned from a week's visit with relatives in Cleveland and Avon-Lake, Erie. While at the latter place they attended a family reunion at the home of Mr. Deake's parents on July Fourth.

Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Martin and Orville Martin of Huntington visited to Portsmouth Sunday to visit their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Moss Martin of Twelfth street. They were joined by Mr. and Mrs. Harry Euth and family, Mr. and Mrs. B. B. Lewis of Portsmouth, Agatha Backus of Portsmouth and motored to the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Barker of McDermott on whose lawn a most delicious picnic supper was served to all.

Mrs. Mary T. T. Abbie, designer at the Oakes Floral Shop, is visiting relatives in Iron-ton.

obstacles. Admit it or not, Bill Barton is my rival. The least I can do is not to let him prosper through my help."

Molly was silent an instant, thinking of the hardness of the otherwise likable man before her.

"Billy will take care of himself," she said slowly. "As far as your agreement goes, but you have no right, Ben, to bring a personal affair into the Chamber of Commerce competition. Irregulars former minister of defense, but the success of the military cause has been purchased at the cost of blaring buildings and terrible destruction in O'Connell street, to say the least of the loss of life and the many seriously wounded.

In the later afternoon, when ten buildings including three hotels, were aflame, the remainder of the irregulars, driven into the Granville hotel with fire on all sides, still maintained a desperate resistance with automatics and rifles.

Bomb Insurgents Out
The final attack by the Free State troops commenced at midday after a lull during which the firing slackened greatly. The irregulars then adopted the desperate plan of bombing the insurgents out. A bomb was hurled into Hanamam's Hotel and soon faint wisps of smoke crept through the shattered windows, and suddenly a burst of flame in front, followed by dense volumes of smoke. The fire attacked the nearby shops and in less than two hours the roofs had collapsed. Three buildings were completely destroyed.

Still the battle raged, the irregulars firing fusillades from the windows of both the Gressam and the Granville, while the national riflemen replied vigorously from their positions opposite and from armored cars.

Fire Follows Explosion
Shortly after one o'clock an armored car took up a position opposite the Gressam and poured a hurricane of machine gun fire into the hotel windows. Smoke belched forth, quickly followed by a muffled explosion and tongues of flames from the window, and within half an hour the front of the building was a flaming furnace.

Even while the hotel was burning, irregulars continued to fire from the upper windows, but by three o'clock the remnant of the garrison, five men, weary eyed and blackened, emerged from the rear of the building under the white flag and surrendered.

Another White Flag
Other irregulars took up a position in the Granville, and directed fire against the nationals. Presently a white flag was seen protruding from the door of the Edinburg Hotel and out walked a curious and pitiful procession of between twenty and thirty persons, mostly women, a white haired woman of seventy bringing up the rear, all carrying small quantities of luggage.

They explained that they had been living in the Edinburg a whole week. These unfortunate civilians were escorted to a place of safety by members of the Red Cross.

Call To Arms
DUBLIN, July 6.—(By the Associated Press)—A call to arms was issued today by the provisional free state government in the form of a proclamation opening the way for the enlistment of those citizens who last week were "declined by the government because it was confident of the ability of the army single handed to meet and defeat an attack made upon it."

"Events have shown that, while the present active strength of the army has been sufficient to deal adequately with the recent situation, there is a possibility of continued sporadic action which makes an increase in the army establishment virtually necessary."

The provisional state government has instructed the general headquarters staff of the volunteer organization to place its entire establishment on an active service basis.

The headquarters staff is directing officers commanding local units to appeal to all members to accept service for three months. All other citizens who desire to join the national ranks will also be recruited for the volunteer organization.

Whereabouts of DeValera Unknown
LONDON, July 6.—(By the Associated Press)—Complete mystery surrounds the whereabouts of Eamon DeValera, the Irish Republican leader. The rumors reaching here from Dublin are varied. One declares it is unknown whether DeValera is alive, another that he has been wounded and captured and a third that he escaped on Monday, having delivered as his farewell watch word to the garrison: "Never surrender, but escape if you can."

Yet another speculation is that he has joined Erskine Childers, who is reported to be at the head of a mobile force of fighters in the hills around Dublin, while elsewhere it was suggested that he had gone to give the benefit of his counsel to the southern Republicans centered at Malin.

Rail Strike

tions for an early settlement of the controversy.

Shoppers Ready To Confer
Jewell's statement that the shop crafts "are willing to confer with those authorized by the railroads to bring peace proposals" was accepted as a promising indication of a speedy return to normal conditions in the railroad shops. Mr. Jewell said he neither included nor excluded anybody, but that if the labor board came with a definite proposition he would not hesitate to consider it.

The statement was made in the face of the repeated contention by the railroads that the shop men's strike is not against the carriers, but against the government and therefore a matter to be settled before a labor board, the government tribunal.

Jewell Explains Absence
Explaining his failure to answer last Friday's summons to appear at a joint conference before the board, Mr. Jewell said the walk-out set for Saturday and that his appearance would have only caused confusion in the ranks of the shop crafts, who had their orders to strike.

Another harbinger of peace in the statement by Chairman Hooper was that a number of railroads which had been farming out shop work to contractors were ready to abolish the contract system.

Fifty additional wage adjustment cases, 44 of which apply to clerks and not included in recent decisions, were set for hearing by the labor board today.

Clerks Head In Conference
Another conference between D. W. Helt, president of the clerks, and W. L. McMenimen, labor member of the board, who met yesterday, was in prospect today.

The railroads generally are advertising for men to take the places of the striking shop men, and strikers were reported at many points to be drifting back to their old jobs. This reported back current continued in the face of repeated assertions by shop crafts leaders that the strike was virtually 100 per cent effective.

Despite the agreement of their president, E. F. Grable, and members of his executive committee, to withhold strike orders, the maintenance men at various points were reported to be joining striking shop men.

Transportation Unhindered
Railroads for the most part announced passenger and freight traffic still to be unhindered.

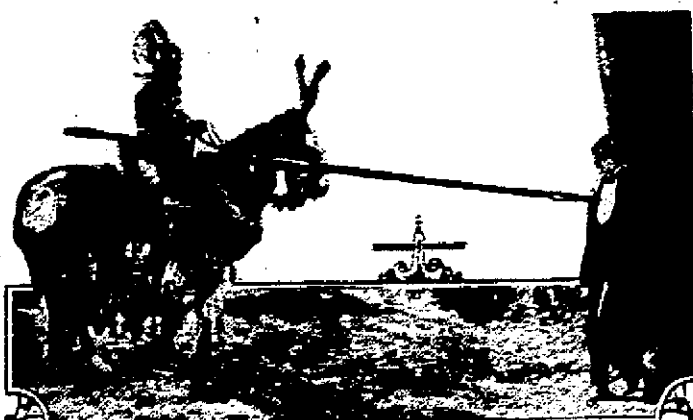

Ultimatums to strikers to return to work by the early part of next week or forfeit all seniority rights, still stood effective in some railroad shops today.

Official Strike Vote
Mr. Jewell made public the exact figures on the strike vote taken by the 400,000 members of the six shop crafts. The vote was divided into three separate ballots, the first one accepting a $2,000,000 reduction in wages ordered by the labor board, the restoration of seven working rules altered by the board, and third, the abolishment of outside contracting by the roads.

The tabulation showed only 94.7 percent of the men voted to strike on the question of wages, the heaviest vote for a strike being on the question of outside contract labor which polled 97.1 percent of the vote cast. The ballot on rules came second with 96.2 for strike. Union leaders said that the vote displayed the relative importance attached to the three points at issue by their membership.

WASHINGTON, July 6.—Interference with the movement of the United States mails by striking railway workers in different parts of the country was reported today to the office of the Superintendent of the Railway Mail Service.

The reports came from Marshall Texas; St. Louis, Mo.; and Kansas City, Mo.; and Quincy, Mo.

The Greatest Screen Production of the Year At The Eastland All Next Week—Wm. Fox Presents Mark Twain's "A Connecticut Yankee In King Arthur's Court." Presentation With Special Orchestra and Music Score.

Mark Twain's masterpiece, "A Connecticut Yankee in King Arthur's Court," has been made into a motion picture by William Fox on a scale worthy of the subject. Issued as a special production, it will open an engagement at the Eastland Theatre next week.

Known to the multitude of Mark Twain lovers as "The Yankee," this story is regarded not only as a great classic of American humor, but also as a forceful satire directed against those who sigh for the "good old times." Mark Twain set out to show that the world we live in is the best of all possible worlds, and the time we live in is the best of all possible times.

This he did by taking a typical young American, bright as a new penny, filled with smart, up-to-date ideas, and setting him down in a medieval court, where he could judge for himself whether the knights of old were more courteous than the men of today, and whether life as a whole was more comfortable then than now.

The result is exquisite fantasy and delicious fooling, with a sharply drawn conclusion. "The Yankee" is rated high among Mark Twain's books. Certainly it is one of the funniest.

The picture was directed by Emmett J. Flynn, noted for his skill in fidelity to detail. The Yankee

The accident occurred at Mr. Etzkorn's camp near Wheelersburg and the child was taken to Scottdale, where Dr. J. W. Hutchens attended him.

Scene from "A CONNECTICUT YANKEE IN KING ARTHUR'S COURT"

The story of a girl who loved speed. That's Bebe Daniels in "The Speed Girl," a speedy, dashing, roaring comedy at the Eastland Theatre today, Friday and Saturday. Also "The Golden State Six." Musical entertainers at one performance only each night.

She craved speed, did pretty Betty Lee, reckless heroine of "The Speed Girl," Bebe Daniels' latest Reelart picture, which opens a three day run today at the Eastland Theatre. She craved speed, and she got it. This swift moving comedy drama, written especially for Miss Daniels' use by Elmer Harris, supervisor of the west coast Reelart studio, is a gentle satire on the modern mania for speed, and amusingly shows how modern children and young people develop a craze for swift locomotion. As the daring little girl who always drove her kiddle car and scooter, her bicycle, her pony and finally, when she grew older, her motor car and her aeroplane, a little faster than anybody else dared to, Miss Daniels has a role admirably suited to her type and temperament, and one in which she declared herself absolutely at home.

With the same author writing for her and supervising as well as the same director and technical staff which made "Two Weeks with Pay," "Oh Lady, Lady," "She Couldn't Help It," "Ducks and Drakes," and "One Wild Week," such sensational screen successes, this play is bound to prove good entertainment.

Theodore Von Eltz, Walter Hiers, Frank Elliott, Norris Johnson, Truly Shattuck and William Courtwright will be seen in the cast.

Athletics For All Students

Ohio Wesleyan's aim to make the entire student body physically fit rather than to develop a few star athletes, has increased rather than decreased her prowess in all branches of athletics.

While many schools by special effort have been able to develop one or two branches of sports to a high standard, Ohio Wesleyan's policy has permitted her to put into the field, year after year, strong teams in all major and minor sports—Football, Baseball, Basketball, and Track; Tennis, Gymnasium and Swimming Teams.

To further encourage mass rather than individual athletic training the University has many intramural contests in all branches of sports between its classes, fraternities and clubs.

At Ohio Wesleyan there is every opportunity for all students to become equipped physically for lives of strenuous work.

APPROPRIATION ORDINANCE PASSED; JITNEY AND TAXI ORDINANCE IS CONSIDERED

Passing of the semi-annual appropriation ordinance fixing $241,167.00 as the total amount the city could expend in the next six months, the first reading of an ordinance to vacate the Marling and Winter alley between Fifth and Sixth streets and the introduction of an ordinance to regulate the operation of taxi and jitney bus lines featured last night's regular meeting of City Council. Council had considerable legislation presented and while the bulk of it was quickly disposed of members spent some time in discussion of the three important pieces of legislation mentioned above.

The semi-annual appropriation ordinance was passed without a change after Chairman Judge George M. Osborn of the finance committee commented on every increase or decrease made in figures from the first six months.

The ordinance providing for the vacation of the Marling-Winter alley was given its first reading when two members failed to vote in favor of suspension of rules. After the reading of the taxi and jitney bus ordinance it was referred to council as a committee of the whole so that several sections could be changed before it was presented for final passage. A special called meeting will be held in two weeks to consider the ordinance.

The semi-annual appropriation ordinance provides monies to defray the salaries and current expenses of the City of Portsmouth for the fiscal half year ending December 1, 1922.

When the ordinance was read to vacate the alley between the Marling and Winter business places on Chillicothe street so that the firms could go ahead with big improvements to their stores, members James Bauer and Joseph Kountz said they were not against the improvement but thought that the ordinance should be given three readings to give any opposition a chance to come before council. A communication from Attorney R. F. Kimble, representing the Newdecker-Silcox Company, wholesale grocers, was read, the communication protesting against the vacation of the alley and stating that it was needed in their business.

Judge Osborn took the floor and said that only one business man had approached him on the alley vacation matter, the man wanting to know if the city was going to give the firms more than $15,000 worth of property free. Judge Osborn said that he explained that the alley was owned by abutting property owners and only dedicated to the city and that the city could not give or sell the alley and that when it was vacated by the city it would revert back to the abutting property owners who could then do with it what they pleased. He said that after the explanation the business man had a different view of the matter. Judge Osborn said that the alley was a dangerous one as traffic from the alley entered onto the main thoroughfare and that this danger of accidents would be lessened in addition to the betterment of the looks of the property and the increasing of the tax duplicate by the big improvements contemplated. He favored the abandoning of such alleys as a general proposition.

A communication from Marling Bros. and Company was read wherein the firm, after the Chillicothe street alley is vacated, agree to give four feet of the east side of the former Young property on Sixth street, thus widening the alley just west of the Marling store from 16 feet to 20 feet. This would give the Fifth street business places a 20 foot street to the rear of their places.

With only five members voting "yes" and two "no" the ordinance will have to be read again before an attempt can be made to pass it.

An ordinance was passed approving plans and appropriating $3,057 for the laying of six inch water mains on Sterling avenue and Valley street, North Moreland addition. Another ordinance increased the pay of the City hall janitor from $600 to $800 per annum, the janitor to give his whole time to the job.

The Service Director was empowered to sell $2,000 in bonds to the credit of the Cemetery Fund and the City Auditor was authorized to advertise for bids for a depository for city funds, in ordinances passed under suspension of rules.

An ordinance was passed providing for the paving of the alley between Tenth and Eleventh streets and east of Hatch street. The engineer was also instructed to bring in an estimate for a sewer wanted by the Portsmouth Store and Range company.

Engineer George Wilhelm presented an estimate for the improving of Fourth street from the first alley west of Market to the west curb of Madison street. The improvement is expected to cost $16,100.00. The R. and O.'s share $3,131.24 and the property owners' share $13,000.00. Legislation was ordered brought in to proceed with the improvement.

Alkali In Soap Bad For The Hair

Soap should be used very carefully, if you want to keep your hair looking its best. Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and ruins it.

The best thing for steady use is Multisided coconut oil shampoo (which is pure and greaseless), and is better than anything else you can use.

Two or three teaspoonfuls of Multisided in a cup of glass with a little warm water is sufficient to cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundance of rich creamy lather, which rinses out easily, removing every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excess oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves the scalp soft, and the hair fine and silky, bright, lustrous, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get Multisided coconut oil shampoo at any pharmacy, it's very cheap, and a few ounces will supply every member of the family for months. Be sure your druggist gives you multisided.—Advertisement.

Legislation was also ordered brought in for the construction of a sanitary sewer between Ninth and Tenth streets near Court, the cost to be $721.50.

The engineer's estimate of $11,050 as the cost of improving the river grade approach to the lower ferry from the Madison and Market street driveways and additional improvements in front of the wharf boat was received and discussed, members deciding that it would be best for the wharf boat committee to meet with the engineer and go over the ground expected to be improved.

Engineer Wilhelm in another communication called Council's attention to the wretched railroad crossings maintained in this city and asked that the wood plank crossings be compared with the splendid crossings now found along the B. and O. tracks on Tenth street. He also presented figures on the cost of maintaining plank crossings and the gravel or slag and tar filled crossings. The recommendation was referred to the railroad and street committee.

The City Engineer's estimate for a sanitary sewer on Kendall avenue was received and legislation ordered brought in for the improvement. Legislation was passed authorizing the extension of water mains to the Carlyle and Star Yard brick plants. This improvement is to cost $325.

When the taxi and jitney bus ordinance was read members found that it would not be favorable to the bus lines running into the city from the West Side. South Webster and Weaver and decided that it would take time to change the different sections so that the bus traffic would be properly regulated.

The tentative ordinance provides, among other things, that a license shall be provided for busses, etc., on the following scale:

For car carrying four passengers, $40 per year.

For car carrying from four to ten passengers, $75 per year.

For car carrying from ten to twenty passengers, $100 per year.

For car carrying over twenty passengers, $125 per year.

Piles

Can't Be Cured From The Outside

External treatments seldom cure Piles. The cause is inside and circulation. The blood is stagnant, the veins flabby. The bowel walls are weak, the parts almost dead. To quickly and safely rig yourself of piles you must free the circulation—send a fresh current through stagnant pools. Internal treatment is the only safe method. Ointments and ointment won't do it. J. S. Leonard, M. D., a specialist, set at work some years ago to find a real internal remedy for piles. He succeeded. He named his prescription HEST-ROID, and tried it in 1000 cases before he was satisfied. Now HEST-ROID is sold by druggists everywhere under guarantee. It is a harmless tablet, easy to take, and can always be found at Wurtter Bros., who will gladly refund the purchase price to any dissatisfied customer. —Advertisement.

ONE CAR BURNED; ANOTHER DAMAGED

A Ford touring car owned by Harold Welch was destroyed and a Ford owned by Carl Cochran of Columbus was badly damaged this morning about seven o'clock when fire of unknown origin visited the frame garage in the rear of the L. G. Welch home, 1814 Eleventh street.

Mr. Cochran, who is a nephew of Mr. Welch, arrived in the city last evening for a visit. Besides the damage to his machine he received burns on the face, arms and leg from electric wires that fell in the garage.

Cochran was in his machine in the garage when the flames shot to the roof of the garage about fifteen feet away from him. Before he had time to jump out of his machine the electric light wires fastened to the ceiling of the garage, fell across the car and burned him. The fire spread so rapidly across the garage that he had to push his machine into the alley but not before the top was burned off and the seat cushions and backs destroyed and two tires damaged. He did not have any insurance on his car.

Harold Welch's car was destroyed, the body and engine being the only parts left. He let the insurance on his car expire the middle of last month. L. G. Welch lost automobile tools that were kept in the garage. The garage was owned by Mrs. James Smith whose loss is estimated at $300.

The Hilltop and East End firemen responded to the alarm and succeeded in keeping the flames to the one building though the garage in the rear of the J. W. Jordan and Sons' grocery was slightly damaged.

He is a brother of Russell Anderson, president of the Portsmouth club.

President Anderson, last night, told the local club of his visits to other clubs in Northern Ohio, during his vacation, and reported all clubs visited in a flourishing condition.

STOMACH SO BAD
COULDN'T SLEEP

Was All-Back-Terribly Nervous—Is Well Now

Here is the story of a man who was always very much prejudiced against medicine, but finally after he had suffered from stomach and bowel trouble for so long a time that he could neither eat nor sleep in comfort, a friend induced him to try Nerv-Worth and the first bottle gave him such wonderful relief he was anxious to tell others about it. Today he is well and hearty as ever and sleeps like a top. His name is Mr. W. Winner and he held the position of Public Service Director in the city of Xenia, O., for four terms. The word of such a man should carry great weight. It is silly for anyone to suffer with stomach or bowel troubles, nervousness and sleeplessness and general run down condition when they can go to the nearest drug store and buy a bottle of Nerv-Worth for a dollar and get their money right back if they are not satisfied with the results they obtain from the first bottle. It acts directly, prevents sour stomach, gas, bloating, belching and other stomach troubles. It regulates the bowels in an easy and natural manner. It is mild yet always effective, even in chronic cases of constipation. It is so pleasant to take that children like it and take it without trouble. It is always on sale in this city at Fisher & Streich's drug store—Advertisement.

MARQUIS DE LA TOUR D'AZUR, who tricked Andre-Louis' dearest friend, PHILIPPE DE VILMORIN, into a duel and then killed him because he feared the idealist's "dangerous gift of eloquence."

Over the dead body of his friend, Andre-Louis swore to carry on the work of reforming the lot of the down-trodden peasants.

Scaramouche, as he is now called, falls in love with

CLIMENE, daughter of MONSIEUR BINET, the owner of the troupe. They become engaged and Andre-Louis has forgotten

ALINE DE KERCADIOL, the friend of his childhood, who horrified him by listening to the suit of the Marquis. While walking with Climene, he unexpectedly meets Aline.

GO ON WITH THE STORY
BOOK III: THE SWORD
CHAPTER I

"YOU may agree," wrote Andre-Louis from Paris to Le Chapelier, in a letter which survives, "that it is to be regretted I should definitely have discarded the livery of Scaramouche, since clearly there could be no livery fitter for my wear. It seems to be my part always to stir up strife and then to slip away before I am caught in the crash of the warring elements I have aroused. It is a humiliating reflection. This time they may want to hang me for several things, including murder; for I do not know whether that scoundrel Binet be alive or dead from the dose of lead I pumped into his fat paunch."

There is also another letter of his written at about the same time to the Marquis de La Tour d'Azur. "The Paris newspapers," he writes in this, "inform me that you have escaped the late I intended for you when I raised that storm of public indignation. I rejoice in it. Had you died, had you been torn limb from limb that night, I should now repine in the thought of your untimely slumber. In torment of mind should the guilty atone."

"I am content that you should live to enrage and suffer in the shadow of your evil deed, knowing at last that the voice of Philippe de Vilmorin will follow you to denounce you ever more loudly, ever more insistently, until having lived in dread you shall go down in blood under the just rage which your victim's dangerous gift of eloquence is kindling against you."

These two letters, both written in April of that year, 1789, had for only immediate effect to increase the activity with which Andre-Louis Moreau was being sought.

Le Chapelier would have found Andre-Louis to urge upon him once again to take up a political career. The electors of Nantes would have found him—at least, they would have found Ombres Omnibus on each of the several occasions when a vacancy occurred in their body. And the Marquis de La Tour d'Azur would have found him in that they might send him to the guillotine.

With a purpose no less vindictive was he being sought by M. Binet, now unhappily recovered from his wound to face completer ruin. His troupe had deserted him during his illness. M. le Marquis, prevented by the riot from expressing in person to M. Binet his purpose of making an end of their relations, had been constrained to write to her to that effect from Azur a few days later.

Meanwhile the fiercely sought Andre-Louis Moreau had gone to earth completely for the present. And the brisk police of Paris, urged on by the King's Lieutenant from Rennes, hunted for him in vain. Yet he might have been found in a house in the Rue du Hazard within a stone's throw of the Palais Royal. He was destitute. So desperate was his case that strolling one empty April morning down the Rue du Hazard with his nose in the wind looking for what might be picked up, he stopped to read a notice outside the door of a house.

The notice announced that a young man of good address with some knowledge of swordsmanship was required by M. Bertrand des Amis on the second floor. Above this notice was a black oblong board, and on this shield, in letters of gold ran the legend:

SHE WAS COMING TOWARD HIM NOW WITH OUTSTRETCHED HANDS.

BERTRAND DES AMIS
Maitre en fait d'armes des Academies du Roi

In the end he climbed to the second floor. On the landing he paused outside a door, on which was written "Academy of M. Bertrand des Amis." From beyond came the stamping of feet, the click and slither of steel upon steel.

Andre-Louis tapped on the door. It was opened by a tall, slender, gracefully proportioned man of perhaps forty.

In the crook of his left arm he carried a fencing-mask. His keen glance played over Andre-Louis from head to foot.

"Monsieur?" he inquired, politely. It was clear that he mistook Andre-Louis' quality, for despite his sadly reduced fortunes, his exterior was irreproachable.

"You have a notice below, monsieur," he said.

"You are come in regard to that?" Andre-Louis shrugged and half smiled. "One must live," said he.

"But come in. Take off your coat," M. des Amis said, "and let us see what you can do. Nature, at least, destined you for a swordsman. You are light, active, and supple, with a good length of arm, and you seem intelligent. I may teach you enough for my purpose, which is that you should give the elements of the art to new pupils. Take that mask and foil, and come over here."

He led him to the end of the room, where the bare floor was scored with lines of chalk to guide the beginner in the management of his feet.

At the end of a ten-minute's bout, M. des Amis offered him the situation, and explained it. In addition to imparting the rudiments of the art to beginners, he was to brush out the fencing-room every morning, keep the foils furnished, assist the gentlemen who came for lessons to dress and undress, and make himself generally useful. His wages for the present were to be forty livres a month.

The position had its humiliations. But if Andre-Louis would hope to dine, he must begin by eating his pride as an hors d'oeuvre.

"And so," he said, controlling a grimace, "the robe yields not only to the sword, but to the broom as well. Be it so."

It is characteristic of him that, having made that choice, he should have thrown himself into the work with enthusiasm.

Every morning before the opening of the academy, the master would force for half an hour with his new assistant. Under this really excellent tuition Andre-Louis improved at a rate that both astounded and flattered M. des Amis. He would have been less flattered and more astounded had he known that at least half the secret of Andre-Louis' amazing progress lay in the fact that he was devouring the contents of the master's library, which was made up of a dozen or so treatises on fencing by great masters.

At the end of a month it suddenly dawned upon M. des Amis that his assistant had developed into a fencer with whom it became necessary to exert himself if he were to escape defeat.

"I said from the first," he told him one day, "that Nature destined you for a swordsman."

"To the master be the glory," said Andre-Louis.

His relations with M. des Amis had meanwhile become of the friendliest, and he was now beginning to receive from him other pupils than mere beginners. M. des Amis, a cheerful, open-handed fellow, rewarded his zeal by increasing his wages to four hundred a month.

Andre-Louis was in the gardens of the Palais Royal, the universal rendezvous, on that Sunday morning in June when the news of Necker's dismissal spread, carrying with it dismay and fury.

He beheld a slight young man with a peak-marked face leap to a table outside the Cafe de Foy, a drawn sword in his hand, crying, "To arms!"

And then upon the silence of astonishment that cry imposed, this young man poured a flood of inflammatory eloquence.

Enthusiasm swept the crowd, a motley crowd made up of men and women of every class, from vagabond to nobleman, from harlot to lady of fashion.

Andre-Louis looked on, and grew afraid. This crowd, he felt, must be restrained. That hot-headed, irresponsible stunner would have the town in a blaze by night unless something were done. The young man, Camille Desmoulins, later to become famous, leapt down from his table still waving his sword, still heart, Andre-Louis heard that dismissal. And then another voice, a crisp, boyish voice, cut in.

"Cade!" it cried, a world of indignation and surprise in its pitch, and then: "Andre!" And this time a note almost of gladness, certainly of welcome, was blended with the surprise that still remained.

Both turned, half the room between them at the moment, and beheld Aline in one of the long, open windows, arrested there in the act of entering from the garden. Aline in a milk-maid bonnet of the latest mode, though without any of the tricolor embellishments that were so commonly to be seen upon them.

She was coming toward him now with outstretched hands, a heightened color in her cheeks, a smile of welcome on her lips. He bowed low and kissed her hand in silence.

Dunn Forced To Sell Stars

BALTIMORE, July 6.—Jack Dunn, president of the Baltimore International League baseball club, said last night that he would sell three of his regulars to the majors during the fall or winter, and admitted that an ultimatum had been presented him at a meeting of club owners held in New York, June 28, which demanded that he dispose of some of his stars or face the return of the draft.

"Matters came to a point on June 28 in New York," said Dunn, "when a secret meeting was held, and the representatives of Rochester, Buffalo and Reading claimed that the Orioles were too strong for any other club, and that they would fight for the return of the draft if I did not dispose of a set number of my players."

Dunn would not say what players would be sold.

It was a bad night, cold and dark, but the horseshoe devotees persisted just the same, and some pretty high scores were made. Gerald and Clair were high men, pitching unopposed, and making 91 and 79 points respectively. Sparks was high man of the evening, opposed, making 79 points. Frediger and Hughes tied for second with 71 each.

Hughes was pace maker in round throwing, making 34, and crowding Frediger out of first place in the number of rings thrown this season. Sparks, who throws better when its cold than when its hot, was second with 32, and Clair third with 30.

The Trinity slightly increased their lead, by winning 30 games from York Park while the A. C. were winning only 9 from Springs street. The Terminals defeated to the Hilltop Eagles and neither the Iron Men nor the Jackson Streeters were able to put teams in the field. Their games will be pitched off some time in the near future, the time to be arranged by the two captains.

STRIKE INTERVENTIONS

WHILE public opinion will heartily support President Harding in his effort to end the soft coal strike even though he should get one foot over the constitutional boundary line in the process (as President Roosevelt did in settling the great anthracite strike of 1902) it is a grave mistake to trust to emergency interventions and intimidations of this sort as a settled policy. They are not all that is needed.

Everybody knows that unrest and insecurity are chronic in the coal industry because of certain phases of that industry's economic position which will not be cured without action by congress. There is an admitted overdevelopment of productive capacity. There is an admitted lack of intelligent and systematic measures to create a summer demand for coal so that the mines may be kept going throughout the year, this giving miners steadier employment. There is an admitted lack of greatly needed facilities for storing coal at the mines or at large shipping centers.

Until congress receives a report on these matters from a competent commission accompanied by recommendations of legislation that will assist the industry to establish itself upon a sounder economic basis the country shall keep muddling along with periodic strike convulsions inflicting losses too far-reaching to estimate. Furthermore, there should be legislation preventing the employment of private police. This practice by big corporations threatens the virtual displacement of constituted police power and is one of the most harmful usurpations that can be imagined. Every one of these matters demands legislative consideration. Presidential settlement of the strike should include a determination to force early action upon them. The president will find the mine unions willing to aid him.

HUGGING AT THE WHEEL

A familiar exhibition of courtship while running automobiles indicates the community's lenient attitude toward the motorized manifestation of the grand passion. Yet consideration of the proprieties, which views with disfavor any public display of infatuations' endearments, cannot condescend to look tolerantly on a practice endangering the safety of others on the road.

It has never been mankind's way to invoke law against transfer of blandishments from the parlor sofa to the highway, at least in times when Dobbin's reins were draped over the dash while Romeo's arms enfolded Juliet. Probably no legal restraint was interposed because the risk was confined to the huggers.

The case assumes an entirely different aspect with the shifting of courtship's gesture to the automobile. In place of the intelligent steed having enough horse sense to negotiate himself the passing of other vehicles, there is a machine which is as likely as not to hog the middle of the road when the person at the wheel subverts attention from steering to engage in hugging.

A rigorous course on the part of local authorities is needed to end this performance. Dispassionate opinion coincides with that of the New Jersey magistrate who reprimanded a young man brought before him for violation of the state law which prohibits one-arm driving: "If I were that young lady, I would never go out driving with you again. Anyone ought to know that it takes two arms to drive a car safely, and two arms to hold a girl properly. Twenty-five dollars."

MOUNT EVEREST'S DARE

MOUNT EVEREST has once more defeated its would-be conquerors. The party of British explorers that lately set forth to reach its summit has returned, vanquished by seemingly unscalable heights and life-threatening elements. The snows of the lofty summit still remain untrodden. But the fight is not yet over. Expeditions will form again and move against this unyielding monarch of the Himalayas. Soon or late, an explorer's flag will flutter from its topmost rock.

Nature may balk man. It may break him in its fury. It may humble his pride. But it never so overawes him that he gives up the fight. The icy fastnesses of the Arctic and Antarctic blocked him for centuries. But he has at last conquered those frozen wastes and planted his victorious banner at the two poles. Fiery months of volcanoes have threatened him with destruction, only to find him peering over their edges and recording the mysteries that they hold between bursts of flame and lava.

It is the dare that does it. The explorer reacts to the challenge of nature in much the same manner as small boys react to the dares of each other. Let a lad draw a mark with his foot and, doubled fists, challenge another to cross it, and it will be crossed before the dare is wholly out of his mouth. If the challenged one is a real boy. So when nature on Mount Everest challenges man, with its threat to crush him at the bottom of deep abysses, to freeze him, to grind him to powder with avalanches, it does not stop him. Man will always meet that dare until the challenger is vanquished.

The reporter who cabled that a noted singer is sick in Petrograd should be recalled. If anyone in Petrograd were not sick, it would be news worth while cabling.

George Gould's Fifth avenue shack can be bought for $1,250,000. He could have got more for it had he put it on the market before the war millionaires went flat.

Politicians who are wondering what the issue of 1924 will be need not bother to make any. There will be enough real ones to satisfy the most exacting.

It is not probable the senate's action in keeping slung on the free list has the interest to the average small boy it would have had at one time.

SHAMGAR became judge and fought against the Philistines, slaying six hundred with an ox goad.
Again Israel sinned. The king of Canaan came against them and they served him twenty years. Then God chose Deborah, a woman, as judge. She sent for Barak and with ten thousand men they went out against Sisera, captain of Canaan's army, and were victorious. Sisera fled. He came to the tent of a woman named Jael, who was a friend of Israel. He hid in her tent; while he was sleeping she killed him. And the children of Israel were set free by the hand of a woman.

New York-Day-By-Day

BY O. O. MCINTYRE

NEW YORK, July 6.—Tim Pan Alley like its lyrical refrain, has its joys and sorrows. Obscure youths with a flair for popular ditties, are suddenly showered with gold. Broadway welcomes them with open arms. In the dazzling new world the gleamers of the White Way are soon on the trail.

Four composers whose tunes were whistled in every city and hamlet have in the past few days fallen upon evil days. Still another—the composer of 50 successful songs—died friendless in the charity ward of the bleak Blackwell Island charity hospital.

It is possible to count on the fingers of one hand song writers who have made fortunes and kept them. The two most notable examples are Irving Berlin and Gene Buck. The Society of Authors, Composers and Publishers have voted donations amounting to $15,000, to indigent composers during the past month.

The money comes suddenly and Broadway has its hale fellows who are ever ready to aid in the spending. There are quite a few composers and lyricists who have dashed off a song in a publishing house still in a single afternoon and received royalties of more than $50,000.

Because of this miracle, they believe that they can do the same thing almost any afternoon they gather around the piano. The truth is that no composer rarely ever has more than four distinct song hits. A hit, incidentally, is not a mere successful song. It means that the sales must amount to more than 100,000 copies.

In a Forty-second street theatre foyer after the show the other night I recognized a composer who once accepted the bows with the lullaby of a reigning musical comedy hit. He was wearing a faded sweater and run over shoes and called out the song numbers in the play, copies of which he sold, as the audience passed out.

This school story is going the rounds. There are many credits for it but Frank Craven is said to have told it first along Broadway to E. P. A.

Teacher: "Johnny, how much is 2x3?"
Johnny: "2x3 is 9."
Teacher: "Pretty good, Johnny!"
Johnny: "Pretty good! Hell! That's perfect!"

The news that William McFee, the writer of sea stories, had been sentenced to the Arizona desert, is happily untrue. The confusion resulted from a tale that Tommy Jonkers, a character in McFee's "Casualties of the Sea," has gone to Arizona. McFee, so his friends say, is reeking with health.

In a building on Thirty-Fourth street there are at least 50 offices occupied by race tipsters. They profess to have stable secrets—real feed-box information. Their clients pay them from $5 to $10 for each tip and as the tipsters give out each horse in the race some are absolutely sure to win. It is an old game and a crooked one, but a feverish track followers still believe in it. They are the most gullible people in the world, according to an old Broadway gambler. One famous Wall street operator, sent to prison three times, started his fortune by buying a page advertisement declaring that a certain horse would win on a certain day. The information was offered free. The horse won. He said afterward it was a mere guess, but the following week his tipping bureau made more than $40,000.

Egotist

"There's no denying that Bill has a pretty high opinion of himself. He thinks he is one man in a thousand."
"Not if I know him, he doesn't—he thinks he's the other 999."—Boston Transcript.

Prompt Identification

The Waiter—Ah, that would be to-morrow, sir. The pea soup tastes like paraffin.—Punch.
